

Kitzbühel at the Center of Knowledge Exchange and Expertise

In the months of May, June, and July, the Gamsstadt once again transforms into a stage for world-class summits and high-level knowledge exchange.

Kitzbühel has always been an attractive host for high-quality conferences and events – with an excellent range of incentives included. As the starting point of this year's summer season, the town presents itself as a central hub for decision-makers and interested participants.

6 summits – 17 days – 111+ speakers. Meeting like-minded people, spending time together, and engaging in dialogue and interaction are fundamental human needs. In our increasingly digitalized world, where social isolation is on the rise, genuine human encounters are gaining new significance and creating strong foundations of trust. This is also evident in the development of the new future vision #wirsindKitzbühel, a project that around 70 locals have been working on voluntarily since 2021. Kitzbühel is establishing itself as a key location for meaningful human connections – both professionally and personally. The town has long been a beloved place for private gatherings with family and friends. At the same time, it continues to welcome top-level events from diverse fields such as artificial intelligence, medicine, technology, and corporate leadership throughout the year.

Kitzbühel Tourism Managing Director Dr. Viktoria Veider-Walser sees great potential for Kitzbühel as a venue: "Kitzbühel has always stood for inspiring networks – whether it's executive meetings in a confidential setting, large-scale conferences, or corporate incentives. What our guests find especially appealing is our complimentary concierge service and the excellent collaboration among our local partners, which makes planning and execution incredibly easy. As a host region, it's a matter of course for us to provide the right setting for every event – regardless of its size – and to create the best possible service for all involved through seamless cooperation among our partners."
